

SEMINAR RE-CHARTING THE COURSE: PROJECT RECOVERY IN A TIME OF FINANCIAL CRISIS

BUILDING & CONSTRUCTION

Many construction projects have been delayed or shelved as a result of the global financial crisis. This seminar will present an overview of both the construction and legal issues, options and actions to save a failing construction project.

Topics Covered

- The warning signs of failing projects
- Proactive measures to protect the parties and the project
- Project and construction management issues and options if a project has stalled
- The legal options when a project is failing or when it has stalled

Learning Outcomes

- The issues to look for when recovering a stalled project
- Insight into how to recover a failing project
- Better understanding of the relevant legal issues that can keep a project moving to completion

Speakers

Peter Sim, Director, Incoll Management Pty Ltd. Peter's consulting experience includes senior roles managing multi-disciplinary projects teams and advisory roles across all phases of project initiation, completion and delivery.

Demetra Giannakopoulos, Special Counsel, Russell Kennedy. Demetra has acted for developers and builders across a broad range of building matters, from domestic single dwelling to commercial projects.
